The Matrix meets an Afro-futuristic retelling of Persephone set in a science fiction underworld of aliens, refugees, and genetic engineering in Jennifer Marie Brissett's Destroyer of Light Having destroyed Earth, the alien conquerors resettle the remains of humanity on the planet of Eleusis. In the four habitable areas of the planet(Day, Dusk, Dawn, and Night!)the haves and have nots, criminals and dissidents, and former alien conquerors irrevocably bind three stories: "A violent warlord abducts a young girl from the agrarian outskirts of Dusk leaving her mother searching and grieving. "Genetically modified twin brothers desperately search for the lost son of a human/alien couple in a criminal underground trafficking children for unknown purposes. "A young woman with inhuman powers rises through the insurgent ranks of soldiers in the borderlands of Night. Their stories, often containing disturbing physical and sexual violence, skate across years, building to a single confrontation when the fate of all human and alien balances upon a knife's-edge. The crew of the USS Walker, led by Lieutenant Commander Matthew Reddy, upholds their promise to defend and protect the Allies as they face a new threat from the "Holy Dominion" and their devastating new weapon.

Synthesis is at the core of organic chemistry. In order for compounds to be studied/be it as drugs, materials, or because of their physical properties! they have to be prepared, often in multistep synthetic sequences. Thus, the target compound is at the outset of synthesis planning. Synthesis involves creating the target compound from smaller, readily available building blocks. Immediately, questions arise: From which building blocks? In which sequence? By which reactions? Nature creates many highly complex (natural products) via reaction cascades, in which an assortment of starting compounds present within the cell is transformed by specific (for each target structure) combinations of modular enzymes in specific sequences into the target compounds [1, 2]. To mimic this efficiency is the dream of an ideal synthesis [2]. However, we are at present so far from achieving such a one-pot operation that actual synthesis has to be achieved via a sequence of individual discrete steps. Thus, we are left with the task of planning each synthesis individually in an optimal fashion. Synthesis planning must be conducted with regard for certain specifications, some of which are due to the structure of the target molecule, and some of which relate to external parameters such as costs, environmental compatibility, or novelty. We will not consider these external aspects in this context. Planning of a synthesis is based on a pool of information regarding chemical reactions that can be executed reliably and in high chemical yield.
